(Brief Description of the factors considered in reaching the preliminary award recommendation percentage)

Whistleblower Office award determinations apply positive and negative factors to determine an award percentage, using fixed points within the applicable range. In the case of an award under (b) (1), the starting point is the statutory minimum of 15%. The presence and significance of positive factors may warrant an increase to 22% or 30%. The presence and significance of negative factors may offset the positive factors in whole or in part, resulting in a final award percentage of 15%, 18%, 22%, or 26%. The positive and negative factors are not exclusive or weighted, and in the particular circumstances a single factor could outweigh several others.
